

LIFESTYLE EDITOR

POSITION SUMMARY

Reporting to the Publications Coordinator and the Editor-in-Chief, this position's primary focus is curating and maintaining the lifestyle section of the Weal. The lifestyle section will aim to make the Weal purposeful and informative to SAIT students by providing practical information on student life, workplace trends, education and employment issues, and maintaining health and wellbeing.

RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Provide the Weal with the high-quality content necessary to publish in the lifestyle section.
2. Curate both a digital and print lifestyle section on a weekly, and monthly basis.
3. Edit the work of volunteer writers and provide feedback.
4. Meet all deadlines as determined by the Publications Coordinator, and the Editor-in-Chief.
5. Contribute hours on a part-time weekly basis in the execution of duties.

DUTIES

The Lifestyle Editor shall:

1. Plan the lifestyle section with a clear focus on the audience and purpose of the Weal.
2. Attend weekly pitch meetings. The editor will come prepared with three story ideas and suggestions.
3. The editor will offer feedback for and on content in other sections of the magazine.
4. Write at least two feature stories for the section each issue.
5. Assign stories to writers using story planners. Completed story planners are due 24 hours after pitch meeting to the Publications Coordinator and Editor-in-Chief. They should be submitted via email.
6. Offer guidance and feedback on volunteers' work.
7. Edit the work of writers before submitting to the Publications Editor and Editor-in-Chief and facilitate necessary changes before publication.
8. Submit content (your stories and the stories of volunteer writers) to the Publications Editor and Editor-in-Chief.
9. Complete written requests for photography required in the section and submit them to the photo editors at least 48 hours in advance of the event.
10. Proofread all sections of the Weal on production days and provide final approval for print.
